Occupational Safety and Health Policy UNPHU

Universidad Nacional Pedro Henríquez Ureña as a house of high studies, aware of the importance of the integration of Occupational Safety and Health in the development of its teaching, research, and institutional welfare activities, commits itself to:

- Promote and guarantee the implementation of the management system of safety and health at work, to maintain and improve the working welfare of its managers, teachers, students, and all staff.
- Comply with applicable occupational health and safety legal requirements, as well as require compliance from their suppliers, contractors, and other interested parties.
- Promote safe and healthy working conditions to prevent accidents, incidents, and occupational diseases, through the identification, analysis, and evaluation of occupational risks.
- Foster a culture of prevention throughout the university community, through communication, participation, and consultation of all staff.
